

Why Your Doctor Is Either Depressed or Retiring

Why Your Doctor Is Burned Out or Retiring

There is a growing litany of acronyms and alphabet soup organizations and algorithms that are designed to confuse, obfuscate and subordinate physician discretionary thinking. Funneling physician thinking into more pre-defined and standardized patterns. With the notion that these patterns are always superior, more efficient and accurate. More than traditional physician discretionary thought, observation and formulation of diagnosis and treatment plans.

This dizzying array is one of the many reasons why virtually every physician over the age of 65 is retiring. You are losing an entire generation of extremely well educated and experienced physicians. The ones who cared. Who were trained to observe. Who were taught to exhaust all testing means. To use deductive and inductive logic.

We have entered the era of economic zero sum medicine. Simple agents of health insurance reimbursement schemes. A world in which medicine becomes thoroughly and inexhaustibly politicized. That is what is being played out in Washington today.
